

Health Co. and Creyos

We use Creyos in our practice to more precisely understand cognitive and behavioral health, leading to data-driven decisions making, more effective treatment plans and better patient outcomes

About Creyos

Creyos is a scientifically-validated online platform for precise and efficient measurement and monitoring of cognitive and behavioral health. Backed by 30 years of research and a robust normative database of 85,000 participants, it combines online, gamified, cognitive tasks with digital behavioral health questionnaires to provide an objective and comprehensive assessment of brain health. Trusted by tens of thousands of healthcare providers world wide, we’ve added Creyos to our practice to enhance care delivery and elevate our clinical decision making – helping you to achieve better outcomes, faster.

How we use Creyos in our clinic

Taking a Creyos Health assessment is straightforward and hassle-free—no need for any fancy gadgets. You can do it on any device you prefer, like your laptop, desktop, or tablet, and it works with all the latest web browsers. Here's a quick run-through of the steps:

Your healthcare provider set up an time for you to do the assessment

Before you take the assignment, you will be guided on what to expect, how to tackle the assessment, and how long it'll probably take.

After you've got the hang of the tutorial, it's showtime! Complete the task, and once you're done, a report will zip off to your practitioner to check out.

Frequently asked questions about the Creyos Assessment

- I feel like I did not do well in my assessment. Should I be concerned?

+
- I could not complete my assessment due to interruption or technical issues. What should I do?

+
- How will my healthcare practitioner use the results?

+